WEALTH AND LEGACY PLANNING

June 21, 2024

4:00pm to 5:30 Tellico Village Yacht Club

Are you charitably inclined? Have you considered leaving a legacy in your community?

The Tellico Community Foundation enriches lives by funding programs and projects that support seniors and promote healthy childhood development in Loudon and Monroe Counties. They are sponsoring a special event on June 21st, 4:00pm-5:30pm, at the Tellico Village Yacht Club, where you will learn how to secure your family's future and how you can leave a legacy in our community.

At this event, Angelia Nystrom, J.D., LL.M., Vice President of Advancement and Chief Legal Counsel for East Tennessee Foundation, will share her expertise in charitable giving and estate planning. As a result, you will strengthen your ability to direct your legacy giving through your chosen financial and estate planning advisor(s). This event will focus on charitable giving as a part of your estate plan and how you can use smart planning to provide for the people and organizations that are meaningful to you.

What you will learn about...

1. The importance of planning for the contingencies of mental or physical disability.
2. Utilizing charitable giving to reduce taxes and to get more of your money to those you love and to organizations that are meaningful to you.
3. The intricacies of Tennessee law related to estate planning, charitable giving, and taxes.
4. The needs in the East Tennessee region and information on charitable giving opportunities that may be available to you.
5. The very real issues your loved ones may face if you don't plan ahead.

THIS EVENT IS FREE OF CHARGE, AND EVERYONE IS INVITED TO ATTEND.

About Angelia Nystrom

Before joining The East Tennessee Foundation in 2023, Angelia practiced law as a shareholder with Long, Ragsdale, and Waters, P.C., focused primarily in the areas of estate planning, fiduciary administration, charitable planning, and probate administration. She was previously with the University of Tennessee Foundation, Inc., for 12 years, spending the last eight as Executive Director of Specialty Programs for the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture (UTIA). Before UT Foundation, she was an attorney in private practice for nearly 18 years. She is an author and has been a featured speaker on estate planning-related topics hundreds of times over the past 30 years.
